LR 7

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Is there any reason why this Legislature couldn't come back early next session and pass some enacting legislation so that the voters would know the intent of the Legislature?

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: They could, it depends what you do with this bill. If this bill, this resolution really, if this resolution is passed this session and it gets transmitted over to the Secretary of State, let's say that you don't get the proper legislation at least semi-approved, I mean just introducing it will help, but you'll probably need it to go through and be debated a little bit, so there is some intention of what we're doing.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Correct.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: If you bail out, there's no way of getting that back from the Secretary of State, then it goes on the ballot.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: I understand that. But there would be that opportunity...

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Sure.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: ...next year to address some of the questions. I understand and share some of your concerns about this possibility of not being able to get the Legislature to act once the constitutional amendment has passed, not being able to find the 25 votes. I don't think that's a real huge possibility, but it does exist.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: I think it's a greater possibility than the other way around, than if you change the system in trying to get numbers lowered, I think it will be much easier to lower the numbers later than it would be to change the system.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: I agree with that, I...

PRESIDENT ROBAK: One minute.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: ...don't think you're incorrect on that. I do
